LOCAL NOTES.

Dr. Goodfellow is on deck again.
New Mexico is infected by a dangerous band of counterfeiters.

Large deposits of coal have been found in the Pinal copper fields.

Mr. Larkin W. Carr, the next sheriff of Cochise county, arrived in town last evening.

It is now reported that Crocker & Co. will build a railroad into the northern portion of the territory.

The Lynx Creek smelter, in Yavapai, is now in successful operation. A boom in that section is anticipated soon.

The comet can be seen now, mornings, at the zenith of its beauty and grandeur at about 4:30. Don't forget to take a look.

General Crook is expected at Fort Huachuca today. If he should visit Tombstone he should be given a rousing reception.

It is reported that the Republicans of Benson are anxious that Mr. Bates, the secretary of the Republican county central committee, should pay them a visit.

The Republicans hung out to the breeze this morning, at their headquarters, a banner which makes quite a display. It will be looked upon as a token of ill omen after November.

A supposed bonanza, at Lake Valley, has been christened the "Belle of Albuquerque," and the Socorro miner modestly but irreverently remarks, that the quality of the ore must be base.

Gold stem-winding Howard watches, worth $180 for $90. Guaranteed for time and cases or no sale, at the square dealing house of Uncle Harris, 221 Kearny, bet. Bush and Sutter streets.

The Deer Creek coal fields are being thoroughly explored and large deposits of bituminous coal has lately been discovered which will soon be worked extensively. So says the Enterprise.

Colonel Clark, of Clarksburg, hove into the city last evening. He reports all at his village in a flourishing condition, and is confident that Clarksburg will, ere long, be the metropolis of Cochise.

From reliable sources, we learn that Pete Spence has been sick since the warrant for his arrest was sworn out, and that as soon as he recovers sufficiently, he will surrender to the proper authorities.

Messrs. A. T. Jones, Larkin W. Carr, Ben Goodrich and M. A. Smith will address the people of Bisbee on the issues of the present campaign next Wednesday evening. They should be given a warm reception and heard with attention.

The Prescott Democrat chronicles a rich strike near the famous Peck mine, in the vicinity of that place. Samples from a pay streak on the 100-foot level give assays of $4000 to $6000 per ton. The mine gives every indication of permanency.

Hip Sling, the keeper of a gambling den in Chinatown, was run in last night by Officer Kenny for having struck one of the fallen damsels from his own dear, native land. He will be compelled to sing before Recorder Wallace at 10 this a. m. to what tune we do not know.

Mr. O. F. Thornton, of the Republican, is expected to make a trip to northern Arizona during the coming week. Mr. Thornton is one of the most versatile writers in Arizona, and as he will write up the resources of the country in his travels, he should be extended a generous welcome everywhere.

The Gazette informs us that Maricopa county is to have a new party which is to sail under the cognomen of the "Labor Saving Party," and further asserts that it will be backed by responsible men. Tombstone has a similar one, only that there are no responsible men "backing" it—only "cranks" as it were.

An Epitaph reporter was shown last evening the rattles taken from one of Arizona's oldest inhabitants—the rattlesnake—which has seventeen points and a button, making for his snakeship, according to snake sharps, twenty-three years in the territory. There are men in the territory who have had "en larger than that. N. B. Lazard did the killing, about a couple of miles northeast of town.

Mohave county, according to a Prescott Democrat correspondent, has a real wild man. At the last writing of said correspondent, he was digging in the sand for water. He is said to be a large, powerful individual with long, shaggy hair. When he noticed that he was observed, he hid himself behind a large rock. This can not be the aspirant for the position of Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The author of "human beans," so we are trustworthily informed, once upon a time, "writ" a letter to the Humboldt Times, and other Pacific coast paper, in which he dealt unparaphrasing with the then present and future of Tombstone. He, in his peculiar way, relegated this camp in broken English to Hades. How would the "v. b." like to read that letter at this date? It is not within keeping with his present aspirations.

WEEKLY MINING REVIEW.

Matters have been running along at the usual rate in this district for the past week. There has been no new developments of more than ordinary consequence, but work has been carried on with the usual steadiness. Development work in the smaller mines is being vigorously prosecuted, and it is a safe assertion to say that there is more work going on now than ever before. The western portion of the district holds its own well, and promises to rival Contention Hill at no distant day. The great producing mines yield about the usual amount of ore, which is being converted into bullion as fast as busy stamps can crush it. The following is the latest information from the mines:

T. M. & M. CO.

Nothing of special importance to report this week, save the successful starting of the smelter at Charleston on Monday last. The experiments of using the manganese ore from the Lucky Cuss for flux has proved successful, and men and teams will be busily engaged for some time to come, breaking and hauling ore from the last named mine. Ten men have been employed to build a road to the mine in order to facilitate the transportation of ore. The West Side is looking better than ever, and shows flattering indications of holding out.

HEAD CENTER.

Still taking out ore between the first and third levels. Quality of the ore steadily improving, and promising much better for the future. Still at work straightening and improving the shaft.

FAIR VILLA.

Winze in south drift below the 100 level has been sunk four feet in good ore. The vein continues to look better and the ore improving in quality as depth is gained. The vein is widening southward, being now from five to six feet wide. During the week from five to six tons of fine ore have been extracted daily. The prospect shaft on the south end of the mine is looking very good, showing good prospects. Everything in and about the mine is in good shape.

INERSON.

No new works have been started and things are running along about as usual. The usual amount of ore is being raised to the surface daily. All the drifts are looking well and the slope on the 80 level is much improved. Negotiations are in progress for the erection of steam hoisting works and it is more than probable that the shrill blasts of the steam whistle will be heard in a few days.

STONEWALL.

The works are all in excellent condition and producing the usual amount of ore. In consequence of the large quantity of ore ahead of the mill only one load a day has been shipped for some time back. The new double compartment shaft has now attained a depth of forty-five feet, and is still in hard lime rock. It is expected that the new shaft will not strike the ledge for 200 feet.

HORSESHOE.

Work is progressing fairly, and the indication of ore is good. The cross cut has now been extended 220 feet, and all indications lead to the belief that the ledge will be struck in a few days.

GRAND CENTRAL.

There have been no new developments during the last week. Have commenced work on the south end of the claim and are drifting from the bottom of the shaft on the Grand Central lode for the Naumkeag ledge, where there is a large showing of good ore. This portion of their ground has never been touched other than the original prospect work. The slopes continue to yield well. They have a large block of ground on the north end of their mine, next to the Contention line, above the 400-foot level, that has never been touched. The great bonanza on the 212-foot level of the Contention is making strong toward this unexplored region, and there is every probability that it will prove itself quite as good as Grand Central as in Contention.

LUCK SURF.

Shaft No. 1 is down 90 feet. The ledge continues to increase its dip into the mountain as they go down on it, and also to widen. It is now four feet between the walls. Started drift north at 50 feet in Shaft No. 2, which has been driven in 30 feet, showing a 2-foot vein of rich ore for the whole distance. They happened to strike a short chimney of manganese ore where the shaft was located, which has continued down thus far with them. At a few feet on either side is the chloride ore filled with horn silver. Have been shipping one load of ore daily to the Boston Mill for the past week. Struck a new chute of ore on the lower ledge, that assays $230 per ton. The force having been employed assorting and loading ore for the past week, there has not been much work done on the mine. Will commence sinking again, however, in a few days.

SAN PEDRO.

The northwest drift on the 205 foot level is in 82 feet. In that distance they have cut two veins of ore from one to two feet wide. They both dip to the southwest at an angle of 45 degrees. Have been following an open fissure for 20 feet, in which are small bodies of rich ore. On the left side of the drift there is a vein of ore two feet wide that dips slightly southwest. They have started a slope on this ore, following it on the dip towards the porphyry. Incline from same drift is down 65 feet in ledge matter. Crosscut from bottom 20 feet toward the Vizina has cut two seams of ledge matter. Ore on 225 level in the southeast drift looks well and will prove the same as that on the 205 level. Several tons of ore on the dump, with considerable in the mine awaiting to be hoisted to the surface. Let contract recently to sink 50 feet on shaft on southwest side of claim. This shaft shows a two foot vein of good ore in the bottom.

VIZINA.

Main crosscut on the 400 level is now extended 275 feet. The drift on the 300 level is now in 176 feet westerly and within four or five feet of the upraise of the 400. All the prospects are looking most encouraging. Shipping the usual quantity of ore to the mill. The prospect shaft west of the office is down to the bedrock having passed through 15 feet of debris.

THUNDERBOLT CON.

Making good progress in the crosscut and the indications excellent. Promises to be one of the great mines of that part of the district at no distant day.

LITTLE DEVIL.

Still keeping up its proud position, as the producer of the richest ore in camp. Have again commenced to sink, and driving along without serious change. Large quantities of high grade ore on the dump.

TRANQUILITY.

No serious change since last week. The slopes are showing up well, and are producing largely. The steam hoist is working well and all the rock is now being raised through the main shaft. The mine was never in better condition, everything wearing a promising aspect.

CONTENTIOUS.

Everything is running along as usual, without much change since our last report. The crosscut on the 600 level is making good progress, and the developments are cheering in the extreme. The ore body on the 212 level improves daily, and there no longer remains a doubt that a large ore body lays in that vicinity. There is an immense amount of ore in sight in the mine, more in fact than the mill has power to crush in two years.

C. O. D.

The shaft has now attained a depth of 100 feet. Struck a cave a few days ago, containing small pockets of very rich ore. The mine looking good, and holding out flattering prospects.

EAGLE.

Still continues to improve. Main incline shaft now driven about 110 feet. Still in a fine body of medium grade ore. An immense body of ore in sight and everything encouraging.

RANDOLPH.

Winze No. 2, near shaft 1 is down 120 feet in a solid body of ore. Winze No. 3 is making good progress, and the drift extends 60 feet. Winze No. 4 is down 75 feet, still in ore. Everything looking good and prospects of the mine are excellent.

GUELPH CONSOLIDATED.

Crosscut started west fifty four feet from surface, and ore body looking good. Width of ledge not less than twenty-five feet, ore of fair average grade.

NOTES.

The successful working of manganese at the smelter will prove a big thing for the camp.

Superintendent Tregidgo, of the San Pedro, returned from Bisbee last evening. He reports the Copperopolis in good condition, the shaft being securely timbered, and everything made ready for extensive developments.

Col. Jack Henderson and Hugh McDonald departed for the Montezuma district, Sonora, a few days ago.

The Blue Jacket is showing up extremely well and promises to be one of the great mines of the district.

BUCKHORN DISTRICT.

News from the Buckhorn district in the Chiricahua, is of a most encouraging character. The mines in Buckhorn Basin in the west slope of the mountains about eight miles south of Bowie are promising flattering returns to the owners as development progresses. The Juno, owned by J. W. Grant and Owen Williams is down 115 feet, and has a ledge five feet wide, assaying from thirty to fifty dollars in free gold.

The Sunnyside, owned by Frank Abrahams is down 105 feet on the ledge with the pay streak three feet and a half wide at the bottom. The ore from this mine is being reduced in an arrastra, and the owners are making a good thing of it. The Homestake, owned by Tom Keefe, of this city is a very promising prospect, only ten feet deep, having a four foot ledge, and assaying fifty dollars a ton from the grass roots. All these claims are being vigorously worked, and are located only about three quarters of a mile from the Josephine mine.

Grand Republican "Ratification" at Benson.

We learn from Sheriff Behan, who returned from Benson, yesterday, that Judge Porter, and the embryo Hon. Savage received a freezing reception at the lively railroad burg the night before. Party Stewart presided, and besides Judge Porter there were on the stage Mr. Savage, and another gentleman, name unknown. Mr. and Mrs. O'Malley and sheriff Behan courteously sat on the piazza of the railroad office building and heard the speech. Besides these, two or three saloon keepers stood listlessly at their doors and took in the china music. This was the extent of his audience and not a murmur of approval or disapproval was heard until the speech was concluded. Fatty Stewart then called for three cheers, which were given by the four men on the platform, the judge himself enthusiastically waving his hat.

A New Campaign Dodge.

The Hon. John Carr, Lord Mayor of Tombstone, created something of an excitement on the streets yesterday by exhibiting wood cut engraving of Lord Mayor McArthur, of London, and calling attention to the remarkable resemblance that existed between the chief magistrates of Tombstone and the British metropolis. This is the latest campaign dodge on record, and should pan out well on account of its extreme originality. There is no doubt that the "human bean" meant to convey the idea that he was a great man because his phiz somewhat resembled a plain woodcut engraving of his worship, the Lord Mayor of London.

Mr. John Kelley, assisted by his accomplished lady, promise the people of Tombstone another musical entertainment before taking their final departure for their home in California. Mr. Kelley, at his entertainment, a few evenings since, gave it out as his last appearance before the public, but having met so many old friends has, through them, been prevailed upon to give one more entertainment, which will be announced through the columns of the Epitaph at no distant day.

The committee on streets, of the city council have been authorized to enter into a contract with the Huachuca Water Co. for the sprinkling of the streets at the rate of $200 per month.

A BEAUTIFUL MUSS.

Interference strike in the Republican Party—The Ticket Generally Censured and Its Defeat Predicted.

The excitement consequent on the promulgation of the Republican ticket is still at its height, and the general discontent is still prevalent. The Democrats, of course, are in a happy frame of mind, and openly assert that the ticket is the best, the very best that could be put in the field. Of course this is meant in a Pickwickian sense, meaning that it is the very best for them.

It is now well known that Blackburn is Harwood's trainer and groom-in-chief, and that he owes his nomination solely to the great connubial's masterly manipulation of the convention. Harwood was doomed to certain defeat a few days before the convention, and Moses was striding to the winning post at a pool lover's pace, when lo, the "unfettered" made his appearance on the scene and trotted out Harwood, and the machine was afraid to give him battle. Accordingly negotiations were entered into, Moses was ruthlessly slaughtered, McCarty and Atchison driven from the field, and a clear course left open for the present nominees.

This is no secret now; everybody who has taken any interest in the contest is fully aware of it. Bates of Benson was the first to approach in the guise of a bargain and sale, and he was secured without much trouble. The Benson statesman was, from the day of the primaries until the morning of the day on which the convention assembled, a warm McCarty and Moses man. In pursuance of the bargain entered into at the behest of the "connubial" he was "approached" and promised the under shirvelly in case he cast his vote and influence in the Ward-Harwood scale. He did not hesitate a moment, but accepted the bait instantly. He had three proxies and his own vote, which was rather a valuable consideration to secure.

As soon as the deal was made known to Judge Moses, he accused Bates of treachery, and a warm scene ensued. Bates unblushingly admitted his treachery, saying that he had only contracted to vote for Moses himself, and that he was willing to do, but would vote his proxies for Harwood. This was enough for Moses, he knew very well that he was doomed to slaughter, and therefore concluded to withdraw. This was how Harwood was nominated. Ward was made the nominee of the party through the influence of the old Earp strikers. It has leaked out that the Earps and some of their friends have been in correspondence for some time back. Wyatt is running a laro game at Gunnison city, Colorado, and he sent word to effect the nomination and election of Ward and he would immediately return. Virgil Earp wrote to the same effect from Colton, California, and Doc Holliday echoed the cry from Pueblo, Colorado.

Tuesdays night about dusk, Bill Johnson, commonly known as "Liberator Bill," was attacked by a band of Indians while un hitching his team, about ten miles from Bisbee. To Mr. Alf Tregidgo, who returned from Bisbee last evening, we are indebted for the particulars of the affair. It seems that Johnson is a well known scout, and was engaged during the day, cutting hay in the southern end of Salphur Spring valley. He had a boy about twelve years old assisting him, and about dusk, reined up his horses and proceeded to unhitch. The well known, and to his ears familiar yell of the noble aborigine, caused him to start and jump for his rifle, which was secured on the mow. Ere he reached it, however, the savages commenced shooting, the first bullet striking the mow, glancing off, and inflicting a painful wound on the side of the head near his left ear. Immediately after another bullet landed square in his abdomen, but fortunately struck a cartridge in his belt, thereby saving his life. He crouched behind the mow, and shouted to the boy who was some distance away on horseback, to ride to Bisbee for help, saying that he would entertain the causes until assistance arrived. The boy did as directed, and made lively time to Bisbee, and informed the people of the transaction related.

Ben Williams, superintendent of the Copper Queen immediately set to work to organize a posse to go to Johnson's assistance, and ere many minutes had a dozen resolute men on horseback riding to the scene of the outrage. The rescuers returned to Bisbee about midnight accompanied by the wounded man. He was not seriously hurt, though the wound in his head is painful. The savages kept firing at him for about an hour, but the wily devils, anticipating the boy's errand, retreated about half past seven o'clock. Johnson maintained his position behind the mow until he heard the voice of his own people bailing him. The horses broke loose at the first volley, and have not been seen since, and are doubtless in the possession of the Indians.

Alf Tregidgo and H. E. Maxson left Bisbee at noon yesterday, and arrived here about six o'clock last evening. They drove down the canyon from Bisbee in less than half an hour, and saw a small band of Indians on horseback, going southward. Ben Williams and R. Hamilton furnished our townsmen with rifles to protect themselves on the homeward trip, for which they are truly grateful. There is no doubt but that bands of San Carlos Indians are passing and re-passing between the reservation and Sonora all the time, and if General Crook is spoiling for a fight, he might stand a chance of getting it by keeping a sharp lookout in Sulphur Springs Valley and the Chiricahua.

The Quartermaster's Department will furnish the necessary transportation, and the subsistence department commutation of rations at the usual rates.

By order of Brigadier General Crook.

J. P. MARTIN,
Assistant Adjutant General.

Pete Spence, Hoovie, Cray and Wilson, who are wanted on the charge of grand larceny, were not to be found by the sheriff's party, who went in their quest yesterday. The officer found, however, the horses and clothing belonging to those mentioned, the men having taken flight a few moments previous to their arrival. Johnny Barnes is not, as has been stated, wanted on any charge. A deputy and posse, armed with a warrant, are still in pursuit of Spence and his accomplices, who, it is believed, are in the vicinity of Rankin's Ranch, two miles from Charleston, at which place the horses were found.

can that I will let its editor $50 that John Carr and Wm. A. Harwood cannot be arraigned before a competent judge and spell eight words out of twelve right. Now, good evening; if they take you up, let me know."

There was not a sign of a bluff on the speaker's face as he took his departure and the earnest expression was conclusive proof that he knew whereof he spoke.

The general feeling around town yesterday and last night, was that the Epitaph was showing how "dread and buried" issues could be kept under the ground, instead of trying to resurrect them. It is admitted all round that the election of Ward would bring back the Earps, and a general feeling is predominant that only the election of Larkin W. Carr can keep the issues of the past where they now are. That the Earps are in correspondence with the trainers of Ward, there is not a doubt, and that they would again infect this community in case of his election is admitted by everyone.

MORE INDIAN DELILTRY.

A Man Shot Near Bisbee—The Savages in Force—Rescue of the Wounded Man by Ben Williams and a Posse.
